here by force, and we don't see why they should if they do not like to go. They live well here and are contented and happy. This county will, however, gain by their removal, as there is a large tract of pine about Winnebagoishish that will be sold, and in such a way that the big fish will have no chance to get hold of all of it. Then too, White Oak Point reservation is fine farming land and is surrounded by meadows and marshes that will cut thousands of tons of excellent hay. We expect to see a town springing up as soon as possible after this land is ratified and the land sold. In the way, it's to be sold in forty acre lots on three years' time. So be on the lookout for a boom at White Oak Point, Santa county.

Brainerd, October 8, 1886.

Error! I have heard that a story is being circulated by my political enemies that, had it not been for me the men who worked for the Driving Park Association would have been able to get their pay. That after receiving the executions I went up into the woods and staid eighteen days, and in the meantime J. J. Howe & Co. filed a lien against the property, and therefore the other creditors got nothing. Now, the facts are, that I did everything that could be done, not only as sheriff, but as a friend of the men who had done the work. I went to the principal stockholders in the association and coaxed them to pay the bills, and three of them, C. H. Douglas, N. McFadden and J. J. Howe were willing to pay their share, which was $30 each, and offered to pay it, but the others would not pay their shares, so the matter fell through. I tried hard for two weeks to get the men their money simply as a friendly act, but did not neglect my duty as sheriff in the least. When I received the executions I levied upon and sold the association property, after posting notices of sale according to law, under directions of Mr. Donaldson, the plaintiff's attorney, and now P. G. Fogelson bid it in to protect himself as one of the creditors. When they asked me what my bill was (there were twelve cases) I told them nothing for my fees, but that I had to pay out one dollar a month to drive down there, and they might pay me that. I never received any money at all in any of the cases. All the property the Association had was the buildings and fence which were on grounds owned by other parties who at the sale fairly added many new bidders. The associates of the men as I was told at the time had all been assigned to Mr. Fogelson and he did not pay me the price which he bid for the property, he leaving the principal creditor. J. J. Howe & Co. had not then nor have they ever filed any lien against the Driving Park Association property and I hope that my friends will consider that such falsehoods as the above are circulated simply for political ends and take no stock in any such story until it is proved after I am allowed an opportunity to answer it. I did my duty in this matter as I have always tried to do in every case and am willing to leave the question to Mr. Donaldson or any attorney in the county.

They Roasted Davenport.

The article in our last issue was a bit bitter against Davenport, the man who murdered the Polleys, and in their article appears the following:

"It is to be regretted that the people of Crow Wing county from whom his jury are to be drawn cannot be made aware of the real character of this inhuman monster. We cannot tell them all nor one-half of his brutality. They cannot be told now of the man who stripped his little son naked and tied him out to a tree to be devoured by the swarms of mosquitoes, or of the monster who plunged his little son and child into the water on a cold day in winter, through a hole in the ice for some fancied offense. They cannot be told of his brutal and inhuman treatment of his wife and family when his fiendish passion was aroused, and how he treated his victims whom he dare not face, from the cover of his house and no specious argument can shield him from the just reward of his crime.

TRAINING CHILDREN.

The importance of an early cultivation of the intellect is a fact.

A child's trust and best happiness does not consist in making his individual well-being the pivot upon which the whole household machinery turns. He will be better, not worse, for a little of the suffering that comes occasionally, and for being taught that there are other people to consider before himself. While a mother should always have quick and hearty sympathy for juvenile trials and perplexities, she should at the same time exact from the child a corresponding consideration for her own occupations and annoyances. The sympathies like other spiritual development, require diligent cultivation.

Hawkins, walks and crossings, $239.50; A. S. McIntyre, work and material, $25.50; McShane & Co., fire bell, $5.54.

The matter of water pressure which should be maintained at all times was considered and on motion of Ald. Percy was referred to the fire department committee to confer with the city attorney and reports. The city engineer submitted plan and specifications for a new bell tower for the fire department, and Ald. Taylor, Percy and Doran were appointed to superintend the work and decide on plans, the clerk being instructed to advertise for bids to be handed in at the next regular meeting. The city attorney was instructed to call for reports from the Municipal Judge and the city Treasurer. Repairs were ordered on the 7th and Kingwood crossing, also the one at the ravine bridge in the Second ward, and also certain crossings in the Fourth ward. The sidewalk in front of P. H. Carney's lot on Sixth street which was damaged by fire was ordered repaired at once. The jail committee was instructed to have filling over the water pipe at the jail ground done at once, also the board of health ascertain who left the dead horse near the river bridge and take such action as they deem proper. A petition was presented for the council to take action on opening up Fifth street across the railroad track, and the matter was referred to the city attorney. The council ordered a side walk to be built on the south side of Juniper street from the center of block 76 to Sixth street before No. 1st. A motion was made by Ald. Gardner to repeal ordinance No. 31, relating to gas and electric light franchise, which was seconded by Ald. Hemsted and carried. Council adjourned.

Charleston Relief Entertainment. EDITOR DISPATCH: The following is a report of the receipts and expenditures of the post for the Charleston Relief Entertainment given at the rink, Oct. 20.

Total receipts, $78.75. Total expenses, $17.50.

Net proceeds, $61.25. Paid Col. Redington, $23.00; Sent door to Adjt. Gen'l, $30.62; Balance in relief fund, $7.63.

Tickets taken at door, 114 at 50c, $57.00; 53 at 25c, $13.25.

Total tickets collected, $70.25. Excess of cash over tickets sold, $8.50.

Total, $78.75. A few tickets sent to East Brainerd are not yet reported upon; also $1.75 not yet collected; when above are reported a final report will be made. When we remember that there has been nearly $2000 raised in the city for relief and charitable purposes in the last ten or twelve days, this being, I think, the fifth entertainment in that time, and all since pay day, the result, we think is very satisfactory, and we wish to thank all who contributed to its success, in money, material or time. We wish especially to thank the children, and their parents, for their success made. We hope in the final report to mention cases of special help, this being from necessity only a fragmentary report. Very truly,

ANDREW E. VERN, Post Commissioner.

For aid. Good house and lot, corner 3d avenue and Farrar street, East Brainerd, price $500. Every thing first class. City water and sewerage. Will take a driving horse or heavy team in part payment; balance monthly payments of $15 per month.

A Campaign Canard.

Brainerd, October 8, 1886. EDITOR DISPATCH: I have heard that a story is being circulated by my political enemies that I had not been for the men who worked for the Driving Park Association when they were able to get their pay. That after receiving the executions I went up into the woods and staid eighteen days, and in the meantime J. J. Howe & Co. filed a lien against the property, and therefore the other creditors got nothing. Now, the facts are, that I did everything that could be done, not only as sheriff, but as a friend of the men who had done the work. I went to the principal stockholders in the association and coaxed them to pay the bills, and three of them, C. H. Douglas, N. McFadden and J. J. Howe were willing to pay their share, which was $30 each, and offered to pay it, but the others would not pay their shares, so the matter fell through. I tried hard for two weeks to get the men their money simply as a friendly act, but did not succeed. My duties as sheriff in the least. When I received the executions I levied upon and sold the association property, after posting notices of sale according to law, under directions of Mr. Donaldson, the plaintiff's attorney, and now P. G. Fogelstrom bid it in to protect himself as one of the creditors. When they asked me what my bill was (there were twelve cases) I told them nothing for my fees, but that I had to pay out one dollar for a team to drive down there, and they might pay me that. I never received any money at all in any of the cases. All the property the Association had was the buildings and fence which were on grounds owned by other parties who at the sale forbade any one moving the property. The accounts of the men as I was told at the time had all been assigned to Mr. Fogelstrom and he did not pay me the price which he bid for the property, he being the principal creditor. J. J. Howe & Co. had not then nor have they ever filed a lien against the Driving Park Association property and I hope that my friends will consider that such falsehoods as the above are circulated simply for political ends and take no stock in any such story until it is proved after I am allowed an opportunity to answer it. I did my duty in this matter as I have always tried to do in every case and am willing to leave the question to Mr. Donaldson or any attorney for the county. P. MEKEZ.

They Roasted Davenport. The Atkin Aye in its last issue is very bitter against Davenport, the man who murdered the Polys, and in their article appears the following:

It is to be regretted that the people of Crow Wing county from whom his jury are to be drawn cannot be made aware of the real character of this inhuman monster. We cannot tell them that one-half of his brutality. They cannot be told now of the man who stripped his little son naked and tied him out to a tree in the woods over night to be torn to pieces by the jaws of a wolf, or of the monster who plunged his knife into his own back and again into the water on a boat, and then threw a hole in the ice for some fancied offense. They cannot be told of his brutal and inhuman treatment of his wife and children. The Danish passion was aroused; and yet, it is all known to us. It cannot be possible that this bloody deed should go unreported, even though he surrendered himself into the hands of justice, and the people of this section will breathe easier when the reward of his Danish crime is meted out to him. Such men as have no right to anything in sacred matters of the state they occupy in this world is needed by better men.

A disgrace to all civilization and a fit punishment for the monster who has dared not face, from the cover of his house, and no specious argument can shield him from the just reward of his crime.

TRAINING CHILDREN.

The importance of an Early Cultivation of Politeness and Grace. A child's truest and best happiness does not consist in making his individual well-being the pivot upon which the whole household machinery turns. He will be better, not worse, for a little judicious letting alone occasionally, and for being taught that there are other people to consider before himself. While a mother should always have pity and hearty sympathy for juvenile trials and perplexities, she should at the same time exact from the child a corresponding consideration for her own occupations and annoyances. The sympathies, like other spiritual development, require diligent cultivation.

In the minor moralities the principle of careful early training holds good. The politeness that is now significantly styled old-fashioned might be reintroduced with benefit to those who practice it and to those who are favored in receiving it. The graceful deference to elders and to women is something that is rarely acquired in mature years. A boy of five is none too young to be taught to pull off his cap when he meets an acquaintance, to remain unobtrusive in the presence of ladies, to step aside to allow them to enter or leave a room first and to remain standing until they are seated. There is an ease of bearing gained by early drilling in these regards that makes unmistakable the difference between the man whose courtesy is ingrained and the one with whom it is a veneering, no matter how skillfully the latter may have been applied.

The table manners of children can not receive too close attention, and yet they seldom have adequate care bestowed upon them. The constant reproof and admonition required seems to be a thankless task for many years. Boys and girls manifest a terrible ingenuity in acquiring awkward habits and unpleasant tricks and an equal cleverness in overcoming them. Perpetual "nagging" is always painful both to the giver and the object, but the recompense of grateful appreciation comes surely, though slowly. Some parents weary of waiting for it and abandon the efforts at training. To men nothing can make up for the lack of self-discipline. Women, more imitative and less transparent in imitation, may tutor themselves into a fair pretense of ease, but a man rarely sufficiently overcomes his self-consciousness to feel otherwise than miserable in a circle where he knows his habits and manner mark a hole in the outward refinement than his associates. Once in a great while the wife of a man may succeed in imparting a polish to the rough article, but it is a tolerable counterfeit of the fine one, but it is at the price of long struggles and bitter mortifications alike to husband and wife. It is in the mother's hand that the power is laid, and with her rests the responsibility if she fails to exercise it aright. -Christine Terhune Herick, in Brooklyn Times.

SHE WILL RESIGN.

Why a Colored Gentleman Terminated His Wife's Labor Contract. "Solomon," said a white man, addressing a colored gentleman, "your wife has been working for me for several years and -"

"Yas, sa, yas."

"Wait a minute. Your wife has been working for me for years, but I am compelled to discharge her."

"Why so, sah?"

"She is a thief."

"My wife?"

"Dat's suthin new ter me, boss. Me and her hab been libin' together er long time and she ain't neber stole any thing from no yit."

"I don't know any thing about that, but I do know that she steals bacon and bread from my house."

"Dat's mighty strange."

"I don't think it is. What do you do?"

"Who, me?"

"Yes, you."

"Wall, I ain't doin' nothin' at de present."

"How do you live?"

"Me?"

"Yes, you."

"W'y, I wooks round 'heah an' dar."

"I know that, but what do you do with your money?"

"My money?"

"Yes, your money."

"Wall, of yer muns' know I plays poker wid de boys."

"Who supports your family while you are playing?"

"My family."

"Yes, your family."

"I does, I wins."

"But who supports your family if you lose?"

"Now look heah, boss, ef yer doan want my wife ter tote viduels erway from yer house, all right. White pusses so strafe dese late days ef der cullud pusses doan know how ter olease 'em. My wife shan't wuck fur
